

Secret Pals

A Fun Team Building Activity

What Is It?

Secret Pals is a fun way of getting to know our co-workers a little more and a great way to remind each other of how special we are by surprising each other with little gifts throughout the week. This activity is meant to be fun and positive recognition of our care for each other.

Here's How It Works:

Everyone who would like to participate will fill out a "Getting To Know You Paper" and give it to the front desk. We will collect all papers and draw names where you will be assigned a "Secret Pal".

During the 4th week of that month, you will surprise your "secret pal" with random goodies. It could be a thoughtful note, a gift off their list, treats, handmade goodies or anything else you can think of to help them feel valued and bring joy to their day.

We suggest that you do something for your secret pal at least 2 times during the week. Be very sneaky when leaving your gift for the day. You don't want to be seen. Then on the last day, you can let your person know who you are.

Every month, we will draw different names for whoever wants to participate, assigning you a new "secret pal" to shower with kindness during the 4th week of the month.

Although Secret Pals is not mandatory, we would like to encourage everyone to participate when possible. This is a great way to learn more about each other, create a wonderful working environment, and make everyone feel good about themselves and co-workers.

Happy Befriending!
